American Troops Defend Channel

With the American Army in France, May 17.—American troops have arrived in the battle area of northern France controlled by the British. Information to this effect was allowed to pass by the American censor today for the first time. It is not advisable to state the number of Americans that have been sent into the northern battle zone nor their location, however.

1,000 U. S. AIRSHIPS A MONTH

Congressman Baer Tells of Results by Board; President Not Opposed to Aero Probe

En Route to New York with President Wilson, May 17.—President Wilson today authorized Secretary Tamm to announce that he was not opposed to an aircraft investigation by the Senate Military Affairs Committee. President Wilson, Secretary Tamm announced, does object to the "covert purpose" of the Chamberlain resolution.

By International News Service. Washington, May 17.—The aircraft production board found a new defender today in the person of Representative Baer of North Dakota. In a statement he said, based on accurate information secured from aviation authorities, Baer said the government has not spent $640,000,000 for aeroplanes during the last year, but only $145,000,000.

MEMO—HAGGARD PLAN. On May 1 we had 250 war planes in Europe," he added. "Besides this we have 1,200 training planes in Europe. In America we have over 4,000 training planes and are turning out 1,500 aeroplanes a month. The expenditures of the government include aeroplanes, engine, selected timber, and various other parts which when assembled will make a mighty air force."

The investigations authorized by the Chamberlain resolution would "cause great annoyance and interference with the necessary war work," he said.

FRENCH STEAMSHIP TORPEDOED, 9 KILLED Paris, May 17.—The steamship Atlantic, 6,554 tons, owned by the Messageries Maritimes Company, was attacked by a German submarine and badly damaged in the Mediterranean here today. The vessel was struck by a torpedo, but succeeded in reaching port under its own steam. Nine crew members were killed.

BRITISH AVIATORS ACTIVE IN BALKANS Paris, May 17.—British aviators in the Seres region of the Macedonian front brought down two enemy aeroplanes within the last few hours, according to official announcement here today. British aviators also bombed enemy depots in the Seres sector, inflicting much damage.

MISS YEOWOMAN SALUTES IN SPOTLESS WHITE

Miss Anna M. Riley, yeowoman, garbed in the new Summer uniform, including white straw hat. The yeowirls have won the right for recognition in salutes by officers.

Miss Yeowoman is doubly blithe to-day. She is getting into her new Summer uniform of cool and becoming white. She has won her "salute fight." Two reasons for being joyful, in the mind of the young woman of this attractive art of national service. The Summer uniforms enhance the wearer's charms. The yeowoman's Summer costume may be of linen, gabardine, serge, flannel or similar white material. The pattern is the same as that of the Winter suits of blue. Insignia in blue on the sleeve shows smartly against the white cloth. The stock and bow shoes are white. The hat is of white straw with white silk lining bearing the letters U. S. N. P. in gold. Several of the yeowomen of the First Naval District have their Summer costumes already. In a short

London War Office Reports Violent Bombardments in Picardy and Flanders

By International News Service. London, May 17.—Great artillery activity developed on both sides throughout the night in the sector of Picardy and in the district north of Hingne (Flanders front), the British War Office reported today.

German guns increased the intensity of their bombardment between Lecon and Lincon, and in the region between Meeren and the Nippe forest.

"These districts are all on the Flanders front, lying toward the southern end of the fighting zone." The text of the official report follows:

"A hostile raiding party was repulsed last night in the neighborhood of Mayseneville, south of Arras (Mayseneville lies between Arras and seven miles south of Arras and immediately south of the Cudell River). Great artillery activity developed on both sides in the Picardy sector north and north of Hingne."

"Hostile artillery shown increased activity between Lecon and Hingne and from the Forest of Nippe to Meeren." The Germans tried to raid Picardy, but were repulsed, the Paris War Office announced today.

Heavy artillery duelling in the Flanders sector (about nine miles southeast of Amiens) took place during the night.

In minor operations French troops captured some forty prisoners. The text of the Paris communiqué follows:

ALLIED AIR FLEET BOMBS CITY IN PRUSSIA

By International News Service. London, May 17.—A British squadron of bombing planes crossed the western fighting front and headed straight for Saarbrücken, in northern Prussia, more than 200 miles from the British air bases in Belgium and more than thirty miles beyond the Franco-German border.

Every mile of the way the British raiders fought a running battle with German planes, trying desperately to "dog" or rout them.

As the battle line was crossed, ten German machines took up the pursuit. By the time Saarbrücken was reached there were twenty-five.

The British planes not only got unharmed to their destination, but having shot down several of their enemy's work of destruction, dropping twenty-four bombs on the railway station and factories. Their task done, they turned against the German machines and sent five of them crashing earthward.

Then they turned to their base, minus only one machine, which was shot down over Saarbrücken.

It was the most effective and most spectacular aerial expedition carried out by British fliers in this war.

Fliers for Allies Destroy 61 German Planes in One Day

By International News Service. London, May 17.—Terrific fighting in the air marks the last preparatory phase before the reopening of the great Western battle.

In this air fighting the allied flyers have decidedly the upper hand, as evidenced by the fact that in a single day no fewer than 61 German airplanes were shot down by the French and British—by the former 42 and by the latter 19.

The Berlin War Office claims thirty-three French and British airplanes to the German total, which is about one-half the credit claimed by the allies. To encourage the celebrated "ace" that was led by Baron von Richthofen up to his recent death, as the Berlin bulletin again mentions this aviator, saying it brought down fourteen of the total.

13 NEW ENGLAND MEN DEAD IN FRANCE

Thirteen deaths out of a total of eighteen New England casualties were reported in the casualty list issued by the War Department today. The victims were largely from Maine and New Hampshire regiments, only three Massachusetts being reported.

The day state boys were: Private Clarence L. Graham, 151st Field Artillery, severely wounded; Mrs. Margaret Graham, No. 61 Elm street, Lynn, Mass.

The New England casualties were divided as follows: Killed in action, 7; died of wounds, 2; died of disease, 3; died of gas, 1; severely wounded, 2; wounded slightly, 2, and missing in action, 1.

One hundred and ten names were reported, including four previously sent. Lieutenant Harold A. Gendrich of New Haven, Miss. M. R. Redmond of New Haven, Miss. 2, Colonel 1.

New York, May 17.—Reports that Alexander Kerensky, deposed Russian leader, is on his way to this country to enlist aid in overthrowing the Bolshevik government and putting Russia back into the fight were confirmed here this afternoon by A. J. Sak, who was director of the Russian Information Bureau during Kerensky's regime. Sak added that a great national power is growing within Russia which will replace the Bolsheviks and will seek aid of the allies.

ITALIAN FLIER IS KILLED AT HEMPSTEAD

By International News Service. Hempstead, N. Y., May 17.—Captain Silvio Rosati, one of Italy's most famous aviators, was killed on the aviation field at Hempstead, near here today, when a new machine which he was testing crashed to earth hurling him under the motor. Death was instantaneous.

Captain Rosati was sent to the United States to demonstrate to government officials the possibilities of the giant Caproni machine. He started the aviation world recently when he carried nine passengers, including several government officials, from Washington and landed them without mishap in the field here.

Americans Now on Both the Flanders and Picardy Fronts

By FRANK CHARLTON, Editor

American troops are now standing upon both the Picardy and Flanders battle fronts—two theatres of the bloodiest struggle the world has ever known.

For several weeks Americans have been fighting shoulder to shoulder with the French upon the Picardy front, but it was not until today that it was known that part of General Pershing's army had been sent into the northern fighting zone, where the British are holding back the Hun.

The inspiring and important news that Americans are now with the British on the vital Flanders front came to America with an electric thrill. It means that, when Von Hindenburg finally renews his drive, that the boys from the United States will have a part in the great task of beating off what may be the most terrific assault of the war.

So far as the censor has permitted, Continued on Page 4, Column 5.

Waukegan, Wis., May 17.—The calm tension under which Grace Lusk had been battling for the past three days of her trial for the murder of Mrs. Mary Newman Roberts suddenly broke today. The break came when Dr. Roberts was suddenly called to the stand and began to talk freely. He put the entire blame for the love affair and tragedy on Miss Lusk. The woman suddenly leaped forward and all but tore away from those attempting to hold her.

U. S. SHELLS FIRE BUILDINGS IN HUN LINES

Yankee Batteries "Strafe" German Communications on Picardy Front

By BERT FORD,

Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

With the American Army in France, the 17-American batteries on the French front in Picardy set fire to several buildings in Montdidier, southern pivot of the German (Picardy wedge, southeast of Amiens) and kept up "strafe" on the enemy's communications effectively. There was intermittent German machine gun fire from Cantigny.

An American shell drove off an enemy patrol. There was much activity of rifles, artillery and aviators, but the infantry was quiet. The French brought down two German flyers in air fighting over our front. A flock of German planes passed the American and French lines last night and drew a lively fire from the batteries on the front and in the rear.

But it was making liberal use of catapult rockets and searchlights for section. They have been occasional repulses of patrol raids. Our guns of all calibers were vigorously active, demoralizing the German front. There was no real infantry action.

The French are proud of the grit and skill of the Yankee artillery units.

"GUNS KEEP BEING HOPPING"

Color Sergeant Thomas J. Rank of Johnson City, Tenn., who is among the American troops holding part of the line on the Picardy front, has been mentioned in general orders for twenty-three years, was enthusiastic over the way the American gunners have been answering the German shells.

"Believe me, our guns have been keeping the Hun hopping. Enemy communication is often impossible in the first line of the line. We give twice as much as is sent. That's the best a face."

But it was dangerous for too many of the fellows to line up at once at the old "chaw" line. The German company cook had evidently established himself in a barn for the German shells were snapping everywhere.

SHELL KILLED THREE.

"Suddenly a Hun shell burst right in the kitchen, killing three and wounding a few others. It sure bowled me over too. The old barn just tumbled down and poured mass of our fellows under the wreckage, but I managed to drag them out. For once the guys who kicked because I would not let them crowd around the 'chaw' gun gathered about and patted me on the back."

"Henry Owen of Marion, Ill., was put out by the commotion. Private John Mitchell got a bit of shrapnel in his helmet, which broke a hole clean through it without touching the scalp. Johnny sure loves that 'chaw'."

STROLLING SOLDIERS

QUIZZED BY POLICE

New York, May 17.—Following an order from police headquarters, all soldiers in uniform strolling about the city were stopped. They were quizzed about their companies, regiments, respective training camps, identification cards and passes of leave. Those who could not give a satisfactory account of their presence in the city were taken to the West Sixty-Eighth street police station.

U. S. Navy Trebled in Ships Since We Entered War

London, May 17.—The American navy has been increased from 300 to 1,000 ships, including 450 destroyers, 250 of them of the fastest and most efficient type. Judge Wadhams declared today in an address to the League of Nations Society.

now going on in the most important branches of the War Department."

This was the view submitted to the Senate here this afternoon in the minority report of the committee on audit and control. The report was signed by Senator Thompson, of Kansas, chairman of the committee, and Senator Jones of New Mexico.

"The minority of the committee," said the report, "are opposed to the passage of the resolution as amended, as it is little better than the original resolution, and is a mere 'straw' proposition, as wholesale inquiries into various departments of the government are directed whether there is any necessity thereof or not."

"The undersigned minority are not adverse to the full exercise of the authority conferred upon the committee on military affairs by the above resolution, in investigating the situation with respect to aircraft, ordnance, appropriation or any other branch of the War Department, as it may desire."

COURT PULL INQUIRY.

"We are favorable to a most thorough and complete inquiry into the aircraft situation, but call attention to the fact that the Department of Justice, which is equipped with every facility, is now most actively engaged in the work and that the Hon. Charles E. Hughes has just been appointed by the President to assist, which ought to put at rest any possible feeling that for any political or other reason a full and complete investigation might not be made, even though the committee on military affairs should not continue its efforts in that behalf."

"It is evident that the numerous investigations specified will cause great avoidance and interference with the necessary work now going on in the most important branches of the War Department."

WOULD TAKE MEN FROM WORK.

"For the War Department to attempt to answer the requirements which may be made upon it and the terms of its resolution, much the line of its activities and employees would be required and the department would be prevented from devoting the time and energy necessary to the performance of essential work in the actual prosecution of the war so vital to the country at this time."

NEW AMERICAN ARMY

JOINS BRITISH FORCES

It is known, Americans are now located on the Western front at the following places:

In French Lorraine, north of Toul, on the heights of the Meuse River (on the western edge of the Western plain), at a certain point in the Champagne district (between Rheims and the Argonne forest), where American artillery was reported by the French War Office to have reinforced the French in the Chemin des Dames sector, north of the Aisne River; south of Montdidier and on the front in northern France.

The exact location of the Americans in northern France was not revealed, as it has been the policy of the military command to conceal the positions of the United States forces until it is actually known that the Germans possess this information.

Violent artillery combat continues on the battle front, but there has been no break in the infantry deadlock except for minor enterprises which possess no great importance.

HUNS HOLD BACK INFANTRY.

London reported that the artillery activity is increasing at points on the Flanders front, notably between Leen and Hinges and between Meteren and the Nijpe forest. However, it is impossible to say whether or not this intensive firing is the prelude to another series of infantry thrusts.

Bombardments of tremendous fury are still raging in the sector of Bliet, southeast of Amiens. The Germans have been shot down. As the titles of big gun ammunition without following up the cartridges with infantry assaults, so that it has become a matter of mere guesswork to tell when 'Yan Hindenburg' will strike again.

The shudder of battle never dies out completely along the battle line, but for several weeks now it has been confined largely to artillery and armor. Infantry has been used for raiding and patrol purposes, but there have been no attacks on a grand scale.

This was the fifty-eighth day of the German offensive.

GERMANS SHOOT DOWN PLANE AT ZEEBRUGGE

Amsterdam, May 17.—It was reported today from Zebrugge, one of the built-up German submarine bases on the Belgian coast, that a raiding airplane had been shot down. An airplane that flew over Dutch territory from the direction of Belgium was fired upon by Dutch guards.

The parade that will open the second Red Cross war fund campaign for $100,000, tomorrow afternoon, will be the most impressive public demonstration the Red Cross has ever made in New England. With the numerous floats and special features it will be a brilliant pageant as well as a parade.

WOMEN POLICE IN 75 U. S. CAMPS

Protect Girls From "Lure of Uniform" as Soldiers Are Made

By EDNA HUBER CHURCH.

Washington, May 17.—Lady police have become an old story. Lady police for military camps are not as widely known, however. But there are lady police for the military camps and their work is to look after the young girls who live near the camps. Miss Maude E. Miner is the chief of these lady police. Upon her shoulders as head of the committee on protection work for young girls of the Women's Council of National Defense falls the work of shielding the young girls of the country from too much lure of uniform and brass buttons.

Of course, it is a very diplomatic sort of work that Miss Miner has to do. It isn't at all her duty to attempt to make the life of the soldier colored and without the company on the opposite sex. Miss Miner has no, as a part of her work, any attempt to cast a pall over the enthusiasm and exuberance of military men and admiration they arouse in the feminine world. Rather it is her work to just keep a watch to see that girls do not lose their heads in the whirl of military lustre and that war does not affect the standard of morals of American women.

There are some eighty camps in the United States containing about a million and a half of soldier boys. In about seventy-five of these camps there are lady police. Perhaps that isn't a very pretty name to call them, for they are more in the nature of chaperones. They wear no uniforms and they carry no sticks. They are not armed and they are not armed.

The lure of the uniform is more than a threat. Miss Miner said it is an actuality. More than a million and a half of men are concentrated in about eighty camps in this country. Girls often lose their heads in the whirl of emotion brought about by the proximity of military men, and there is the problem.

The most important work of the committee is to awaken communities to the necessity of protecting girls and to secure facilities for so-called protective officers.

Protective officers have already been appointed so far in the military camps. They are usually given the status of a deputy sheriff and have complete jurisdiction over the local authorities. Though sometimes they are given police power. By scouting and patrolling constantly they use it infrequently, for their function is to protect, not to punish. have left their homes.

MINE PFD. MOVES

UP 4 3/4 TO 100 MARK

New York, May 17.—Commission selling was noted in many of the active stocks during the forenoon on the stock exchange, and there was a show of hesitation generally on the part of the speculative interests, which was reflected in recessions after the initial gains, but in the late forenoon strength developed in several groups of stocks. Most interest was attached to the trading in Marjorie pfd., which moved up 4 3/4 points to 100, while the common rose nearly 2 points to 25 1/2, with most of the buying coming from strong sources. The steel issue was irregular, commission houses liquidation causing declines in the first hour, some of which were recovered. Steel common, after declining to 10 1/2, rose to above 11 1/2, and closed at 11 3/4.

Halfwin, after dropping to 9 1/2, rallied to 17 1/2. The railroad stocks were generally strong, Union Pacific moving up 1 1/2 to 12 1/2. Reading sold up to 42 1/2.

22-CENT INCREASE FOR MILFORD-HOPDEALE GAS

The price of gas for Milford and Hopdeale has been fixed at $1.17 per 1,000, by the Massachusetts Gas and Electric Light Commission. This is an increase of twenty-two cents a 1,000. Word to this effect was received today by Judge John C. Lynch, town collector of Milford. The increase in price, according to advice received by Judge Lynch, is already in effect, and May bills will be figured according to the new rate. The commission requested a rate of $1.15 per 1,000.

CARRY MAP OF U. S. AS BADGE OF HONOR

Bronze Button which is the official badge of the U. S. Public Service Reserve, and which is being worn by about 20,000 persons as badge of honor. Its wearers are pledged to leave their work and homes if called upon, to carry on work for government needs.

Have you seen the new badge of honor?

It carries the entire United States. When a man wears this button he is pledged to leave his work, and his home, if need be, to carry on work for government needs, such as shipbuilding, fueling, or whatever may be pressing from time to time. 25,000 ARE ENROLLED.

In the recent five weeks shipbuilding drive in this State, the United States Public Service Reserve, under Colonel William A. Weston, its director in Massachusetts, secured an enrollment of 25,000.

Now the drive for gear help is on. The button which goes with the enrollment is an oval disc of metal, about the size of a dime. The design is inspiring. Nearly all the field of the oval is occupied by a bronze map of the United States in eight radii. Surrounding the upper part of the map is a bronze eagle, whose outstretched wings touch the seaboard with their tips. Below the eagle are the letters:

U. S.
P. S. R.

Thus the Public Service Reservist bears his country on his badge. It is held up by the Nation, even as Atlas was famed in ancient mythology to hold up the heavens. But, whereas Atlas did this as a pained imposed task, the Public Service Reservist bears his country as a badge of honor and a mark of patriotism. CARPENTERS HEAD LIFT.

Enrollment honors go to the ancient craft of carpenters who have pledged themselves to the Public Service Reserve for shipbuilding needs.

In all, 4,100 of these busy men are promised to give up their present work and help as some of the "men of the hour" when the call comes. The machine makes a close second, with an enrollment of 5,000 men. The third place is given to the laborers, those definitely termed but highly necessary auxiliary to every industry, who have registered to the number of 7,722.

The list of other craftsmen enrolled for shipbuilding shows the wide distribution of the reserves and the enthusiasm with which they responded to the enrollment call. The remaining shipbuilding enrollment includes such representatives as:

Painters and woodworkers	2,421
Plumbers and pipe fitters	1,157
Mechanics and trades	1,842
Electrician workers	1,346
Chemists	1,346
Automobile mechanics	581
Sheet metal workers	571
Permiths	571
Structural iron workers	553
Boilermakers	319
Drummers	247
Shipbuilders	24
Acetylene and electrical welders	20
Aesthetic workers	20
Chippers and caulkers	20
Loftsmen	20

But the bronze buttons that are being worn now are not the only ones that will make their appearance. Hundreds—perhaps thousands—more are being applied for all the time. As the days go by the men who have been registered for the shipbuilding work are being motivated by those who are willing to go into the farms—to give what time they can to the important work of feeding those who are fighting the battles and those who are doing the other work that is necessary to bring the war to a successful end.

Casts—position—destination—all give way before the new spirit of America.

The Army of the Little Bronze Oval is doing its part in the common cause.

REPORT BILL TO TAKE OVER DAY STATE

Public Control Provided for Trolley Road Now in Hands of Receiver

The details of the bill for "relief" of the Bay State Street Railway, the longest street railway system in the world, and which is now in the hands of a receiver, became known today for the first time.

The bill was reported in the House today by the Street Railway Committee of the Legislature. The principal points in the bill are these:

- 1—Partial public control of the Bay State.
- 2—Service-at-cost and a guarantee of 6 per cent. dividend to the shareholders.
- 3—Complete reorganization of the old company now in the receiver's hands, and the formation of a new corporation to acquire the securities.

LONG BILL FOR LONG ROAD

The bill is twenty-two sections long and is said because of the bankrupt condition of the Bay State, to be one of the most complicated pieces of financial-legislative machinery ever presented to the Legislature for enactment.

Under its terms, the new company would acquire the property at a "judicial" sale, by majority vote of the directors and two-thirds' vote of the stockholders.

The new company would be controlled by a board of five trustees, three to be public trustees appointed by the Governor and the other two to be appointed by the directors of the railway. The period of semi-public control would last for ten years. The old company would be bought for $40,000,000, which was the value placed on the property by the Public Service Commission in the big rate case, plus the "present value" of the property on a basis of 6 per cent. dividends. This section, it is said, would greatly increase the price to the old stockholders for the property. The new company would issue stock for the purchase.

TO RAISE $5,000,000

As soon as the property came under public control, the trustees would be required to raise $5,000,000 by the sale of serial bonds. Of that amount $1,000,000 would be put into a reserve fund to serve as a barometer to determine the fares under the service-at-cost plan. The sum of $2,000,000 would be used for the purchase of new cars and equipment.

The balance of the $5,000,000 of bonds would be "kept on hand" to make up a deficiency from the operations of the deficiency. The bonds would include the 6 per cent. dividends. When the deficiency existed the state treasurer would buy serial bonds from the company in the amount of the deficiency. The bonds would be apportioned among the cities and towns in which the Bay State operates on this basis: Fifty per cent. on the valuation of the town; twenty-five per cent. on the town's share of the State tax; twenty-five per cent. on the trackage in the town.

REINVESTMENT PROVIDED

When an increase of fares made up the deficiency, the state treasurer would reimburse the cities and towns.

The trustees are authorized to take all the powers now exercised by the private directors. They would manage the company from top to bottom. They could "hire and fire."

The new company would be exempted from the payment of the tax of highway and bridge repairing.

SECRET DRAFT PLAN MAY BE ADOPTED

Germans Can Calculate Men Sent to France from Quota Numbers

Washington, May 17.—All information concerning draft calls will be withheld from the public. If a plan now being considered by the War Department is adopted.

This policy has been urged by some army officers for some time. Now it is known to be under serious discussion with the probability that it shortly will be announced.

Traffic agents call for plans for the next few months. The reason for the present secrecy is to prevent the enemy from learning exactly how the United States is increasing its arm.

Germany knows that men are sent to fighting camps only as fast as space is provided by the withdrawal of trained troops for overseas shipment.

By checking up on the published accounts of draft calls, a fairly accurate estimate of the number of men going to France can be made.

By withholding all figures on the number of recruits being ordered into military service, the enemy will be confronted with the necessity of depending upon guess to secure information now made easily available.

To further insure secrecy, if the proposed plan is put into effect, those who are authorized also will be forbidden to discuss the matter.

The election of the three members of the class was made by the members of the class. The girls have announced their engagements for the coming year. Miss Colton, Katherine H. Kincaid of Brookline, Marion V. Hickey of Beverly.

The class day officers were: Miss John J. Woodland, class poet; Lilian M. Vaughan, valedictorian; Marjorie D. Colton, class day marshal; Sheila Warren, class.

NEW FISH REGULATIONS DO NOT HIT STATE LAWS

Bangor, May 16.—Pleading that Maine fishermen may be misled by the phrasing of the announcement recently published concerning suspension of the Federal regulations governing sea fishing, H. C. Wilbur of the Maine Sea and Shore Fisheries Commission pointed out that the new regulations do not affect in any way the State laws. "The new regulations," said Mr. Wilbur, "divide the Atlantic coast waters into two zones, the inside and the outside. The State laws, in Maine at least, are operative in the inside waters. All restrictions are removed from the fishing allowed only in the outside waters. The Federal rules provide a dividing line between the inside and outside waters as follows: From Quoddy Head to Long Point, to Cummaquid Head, to Eastern Head on the one hand, to Penikese Island, to Cape Elizabeth, to Cape Ann, Mass. Outside that line there are no restrictions whatever on fishing; inside, the State laws are in force as usual."

NAVY SEES END OF SUNDAY BASEBALL

Ruling Against Money Collections Leaves the Boys No Way to Meet Expenses

By H. HARRY FERRIS

Aboard the receiving ship at Boston, May 17.—The cancellation of the game between the nines from Pelham Bay and the ship, that had been planned for next Sunday, probably marks the end of Sunday base ball, on any extended scale, in so far as the navy teams in this part of the country are concerned.

The original order of Admiral Spencer, R. Wood, that there should be no collections taken at Sunday games played by naval teams, unless the whole of the proceeds were turned over to the uses of the service, cast a damper on the hopes that had been entertained of an exciting contest running through the season with the nines from Camp Devens and other military posts and cantonments.

The latest order issued by Rear Admiral Leigh C. Palmer, chief of the Bureau of Navigation, goes a step farther than that of Admiral Wood. It forbids collections under any conditions at a game in which navy teams take part, and applies to the whole country. The original order was only effective in the First Naval District.

Without collections the sailors will be without funds for uniforms, buns, hats and traveling expenses. The naval boys, although many of them are heavily disappointed, are not doing much complaining over the latest order. They are not in the navy for that purpose.

An enlisted man, a college graduate, expressed the common opinion quite early when he said: "We feel that the authorities acted for what they considered the best interests of the service when they issued this order. It is unfortunate that they have no way of finding out what the great mass of naval men think about such a subject or of getting their point of view. As a rule they have only one side presented to them."

"If it could be arranged, I should like to see some channel of communication opened so that the men could present their side of athletic questions to the authorities."

Charles Pfeiffer delivered an interesting address before an audience in which there were a number of boys from the ship at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday evening. A number of young women furnished an interesting musical program and there was dancing.

EDITORIAL

New England may have drawbacks as a suitable place for the training of soldiers of the National Army during the winter, but it has many advantages during the spring and summer, as some 35,000 soldiers at Camp Devens will testify. The country about the cantonment is quaint and picturesque, and the spring verdure has lent an added charm to the hiked men as they return for service overseas. Soldiers who complained of the bitter cold and the snow and ice during their winter training are today boasting that Devens is the greatest camp in the country from every standpoint. Trips into the country have had a softening and cheering effect upon both officers and men, and the green of the grass and foliage is a welcome relief from the monotonous brown earth of the cantonment.

CONDEMN POOR MILITARY HORSE PLAYS AT CAMP THEATRE

Complaints Have Caused Officials to Give Warning to the Liberty Managers

By WILLIAM FLYNN.

Camp Devens, May 17.—The character of the shows staged at the Liberty theatre has caused so much unfavorable comment that it has finally received official attention and persons connected with the enterprise have been told that unless the performances improve the theatre will be the subject of an official investigation.

Many of the officers have condemned the majority of the plays presented at the theatre, although they have expressed their appreciation of the "big time" companies that have come out from Boston.

Unless better companies and better attractions are put on, the action contemplated by the army authority to the Smiths Book campaign. Lieutenant-Colonel Paul Hurst has been made acting commander of the 1st Field Brigade in the place of Lieutenant-Colonel J. B. Kemper, the former president of the court-martial which "tried" on the thirty-year sentence of Sergeant William E. Wink. Kemper has been transferred to the 1st division at Camp Lee.

Notes From Camp

Another man who has been decorated with the Croix de Guerre of France for distinguished service was turned up among the college men selected to attend the fourth officers' training camp. He is W. D. Jordan of Harvard, son of Edwin G. Jordan of Chicago. He received the decoration for bringing in wounded under fire while in the French medical service.

Private Joseph N. Higgins of Devens is at the base hospital with a broken right ankle. He had been absent without leave since April 20 and Army officials may be relieved by his return when he is turned from the window of a house in Boston to escape the protest guard.

Private Christopher Lake of Providence is posted as a deserter. He had been sentenced to six months in the guardhouse for being absent without leave once before and that time he was reported to have been arrested in the office of Governor Beekman of Rhode Island, whom he had asked to intercede for him.

WILL BUILD BIG AUTO FACTORY IN NATION

Northway Motors, Formed In Massachusetts, Capitalized at $5,000,000

By C. F. DONNOCKER.

The Northway Motor Corporation has secured a tract of land comprising thirty acres at Natick, for the erection of a plant to build motor trucks, tractors, special motors and passenger cars.

It is evident to even the casual observer that the future of the motor truck industry is most promising; when it is considered that after the war all Europe must depend upon the United States for trucks of all kinds and sizes and that Boston will be one of the most important ports of entry in the United States. With this fact in mind the Northway Motor Corporation, capitalizing for five million dollars, was formed in this State.

The officers are: President, James P. Cavanaugh, member of the Massachusetts Senate, vice-president and chief engineer, R. E. Northway, designer and builder of the Northway motor, secretary and treasurer, James P. Fineman, president Woodward Drug Company, chairman, executive committee, J. H. Walker, treasurer and general manager of Wakefield-Walls Manufacturing Company, Amesbury, Mass. The above-named with Thomas J. Carroll, director and general manager of the Gordon Fire Phosphate Company, Gloucester, and Northway, make up the board of directors.

The State-wide reputation of the new making up the directors of the Northway Motor Corporation is well known for its success. The site selected for an industry of this kind is unsurpassed. On a train railroad line to New York and the West, the desirability is apparent. With the rapid development of freight transportation by auto trucks, the location of the Northway Motor Corporation upon the direct thoroughfare from Boston to Worcester, is most desirable.

The reputation of R. E. Northway is too well known to need much introduction. The Northway motors have been famous for many years in the automobile industry and the fact that their designer has branched out into the motor truck and the industry is evidence enough that the truck will be one designed to meet the requirements which the previous experience of the builder well knows are needed in every commercial vehicle.

Mr. Northway designed the Ford motor while with Dodge Bros. of Detroit, and designed and built the famous Northway motor which has been used in the Cole, Oakland, Oldsmobile and other automobiles.

Editor Gianini, I.W.W. Leader, Arrested on Federal Order

Lawrence, May 17.—Editor Gianini, a one-time prominent I. W. W. leader who took an important part in the Lawrence strike of 1915, has been arrested here for the Federal authorities. The first intimation of a charge against the editor was a telegram received asking for his immediate arrest and detention. He was located in a store on Oak street, said to be in deal with recent activities of the I. W. W.

Gianini was arrested during the big strike for violation of the peaceful picketing law. He was taken to Boston for detention pending disposition of his case, which is said to deal with recent activities of the I. W. W.

Hose Coupling and Peggy Make Fun for Rookies

Camp Devens, May 17.—Hose coupling is the latest invention of Lieutenant P. S. McIlwain, who keeps alive the company spirit of the "rookies" who came here in the last draft. Each team consists of a non-commissioned officer and eight men and contest looks like one of the old-time firemen's playoffs brought up to date.

The time-honored game of "Peggy" played by youngsters throughout the country, has also found its version among the new men here and the recognized champion is Corporal J. J. Cotter of the headquarters detachment of the Depot Brigade, who went through to the finals and defeated the colored champion of the South before a gallery of several hundred soldiers.

301ST ENGINEERS ON HIKE BACK TO CAMP

Pittsburg, May 17.—The 301st Engineers of Camp Devens broke camp between Whalom Park and Lanesburg this morning for four days on the road. The regiment was given a royal welcome as the 100 men and 400 horses passed through this city. Where Red Cross flags were displayed, the 301st gave them the loudest "hailing yells" to find out what the soldiers would arrive at given points so that arrangements could be made to have crowds out to greet the boys in khaki.

21 FOR CAMP UPTON

Twenty-one drafts of the first class will be sent by State Division II, which is made up of Lexington, Belmont and Waterbury, to Camp Upton, New York, Saturday, May 18. ANHEUSER-BUSCH, ST. LOUIS.

The universal popularity of Bevo made it necessary to erect this building—the largest of its character in the world. Covers two city blocks. Floor space 26 acres. A basement 30 feet high containing 13 tracks each to accommodate ten freight cars. Will employ 2,500 people and have a bottling capacity of two million bottles daily, equal to 40 car loads, on an eight hour day basis.

made in New York this week, Harvard will take part in the Interstate collegiate track meet this month and has entered ten men into the competitions which are to be held on Franklin field, Philadelphia, under the auspices of the University of Pennsylvania.

While the Harvard quota will probably not all go three or four, as is expected, it is said, it may be given as a reward for faithful training.

Practically Certain that Stuffy Will Hold Down Initial Slack From Now On

By NICK PLATLEY.
Three in a row and retention of their ever-thrilled hold on the league pinballs was the object of the Bagrow brigade today as they charged on a more at the Tigers.

The team's refusal to victory from since the return home has been entirely wiped out all the nervousness caused by the defeat on the road, an everybody is inclined to believe that first place will be retained through the summer.

BOSS STALLINGS UP AGAINST IT FOR HITTERS

Wickland Alone is Showing Power With Bludgeon; Smith and Koney Slumping

St. Louis, May 11.—Gent pitcher in two games against the Cardinals has been wanted a while because Manager Stallings does not possess the right number of clean-up hitters.

At present Al Wickland, a graduate of the Indianapolis club, is scattered in the line-up, playing a lone hand, but the job of winning every game by himself is nothing to much for our young hero.

Stallings expected to get out of the cellar during the stay here, but even he will have to come back with victories in the remaining three games to pass the Cardinals.

BASEBALL GIVES FIRST VICTIM TO GERMANS

Cliff Markle, Former Yankee Hurler, on Missing List—Fullerton Leads Juvenile

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.
Baseball has given its first victim to the Germans. Cliff Markle, one pitcher for the New York Yankees, then for Toronto and last season with the Cleveland Indians, is on the list of missing men over by General Delahunt.

No hint as to what his fate may have been was conveyed in the dispatch, but his friends will hope that he turns up safe even if a prisoner.

Markle when he first joined the American League, promised to be one of the best pitchers in the circuit, but after a brilliant start he was overthrown and he was sent back to the minors.

Great Things From Little Coupons Grow

Buy War Stamps With Your Liberty Bond Coupons

Here is a good suggestion, not original with the writer. The man with one or a few Liberty Bonds should use the coupon money as it comes due, TO BUY THRIFT STAMPS.

If he has children, let him explain to them the process by which the coupon is changed into war stamps, which in their turn earn compound interest and grow into a larger sum.

Man's most valuable property is A GOOD HABIT. Good habits grow, and must be cultivated like other valuable things.

The most valuable habit to any human being, one that the conscientious father and mother should cultivate in their children, is the habit of thrift—not false economy which prefers a dollar to a good book, but wise economy which realizes that life is a battle, accumulated dollars are the bullets—life is a fever of anxiety, money is the quinine that will fight the fever.

Many men have bought few bonds, being unable to buy more. Some thoughtlessly will tell you, "These bonds are rather a nuisance. I must cut off the coupons, collect the money, invest it and so on." There is NO bother. Any bank or store will give you 100 per cent. cash for your coupons.

And your bond, even one single $50 bond, can be made a BUSINESS EDUCATION for your children.

You show them the bond with the coupons attached. You say, "Children, I am going to explain to you how men become rich and independent."

"I paid $50 for this bond. You see all these little coupons attached. For every one of these coupons the Government gives me $1.06. Every year while I have this bond the Government will pay me $1.06 twice every year. At the end of many years, after paying this money regularly for the little coupons, the Government will give me all of the $50 that I paid for the bond.

"You know how the chickens eat in the barnyard lay eggs. This bond is like that, only I don't have to feed it, it never dies and never stops laying.

"I am able to have this bond get the money for these little coupons every year BECAUSE I SAVED $50.

"Men become rich because they save, and every year twice the money comes in.

"They live on that. When they die all their money is still there, just as much as they ever had, although they have been spending all their lives. And they give it to their children, and that makes the rich families you see that live without working.

"But in the beginning somebody had to save.

"I, your father, am saving for you all I can. You must learn to save for yourself."

The Liberty Bond should not be something bought in a patriotic moment to be put away. For the family of small means, especially, it should be a lesson for the children and a valuable educational force in the home.

Say to the child, "You would be glad if you could plant your five-cent piece and see little five-cent pieces grow.

"You CAN plant your money in a Liberty Bond, or a War Stamp, and watch that money grow."

Great oaks from little acorns grow.

Great prosperity for your children will grow from the little coupons on your Liberty Bond if, as you cut them off, you explain the process to your children, invest the proceeds in Thrift Stamps, with each child's name in a little book.

What would you not give were it in your power to assure absolute independence and happiness for your children in the future?

IT IS IN YOUR POWER to give to your children a thrift habit, more valuable to them than any money you might leave them.

For sharks can steal money from your widow or your children, but they cannot steal education or the good habits that make men strong and independent.

Eat Potatoes--the Old Crop-- Instead of Bread

Copyright, 1918, by the Star Company.

The Government of this country urges its citizens to use potatoes wherever possible in place of other food.

One year ago potatoes cost twelve, fifteen dollars and more per barrel. The public complained bitterly. Everybody wanted potatoes.

Farmers were implored to plant potatoes enough. THEY RESPONDED PROMPTLY. And now, for lack of co-ordination and co-operation on the part of the public, there is a glut of potatoes, a great stock of valuable food that will be lost unless the public will show patriotism and common sense and in its choice of food give preference to potatoes.

This newspaper urges its readers to eat potatoes, the old crop—not the half developed, infinitely less nourishing "new potatoes." The farmers took the trouble to raise the potatoes; you Eat Them.

And remember that if you let the farmers lose the value of these potatoes, if you discourage them now, neither you nor the Government will have any right to repeat last Spring's performance and beg the farmers to "plant more potatoes and more and more."

Please show this editorial to your friends, talk to them about it, tell them that if they were introduced this day to the President of the United States and asked his opinion he would tell them that they would render a service to the country and to national welfare by using up the great potato crop, encouraging farmers, saving other food and avoiding extravagantly high prices for potatoes next Fall, by co-operating with the farmer at this time.

Potatoes, unlike wheat, corn and other products, keep only a short time.

Even now the potatoes that should be eaten are sprouting in the cellars, no matter how carefully they may be kept.

EAT POTATOES. PLENTY OF THEM; THEY MAKE GOOD, HEALTHY BLOOD, STRONG PEOPLE. If you doubt it, remember John L. Sullivan, whose ancestors lived chiefly on potatoes and buttermilk for generations.

STUBBY-TOED KID BREAKS DANIELS' RULES

By Winifred Black

THE woman who sits at the foot of the stairs in the Navy Department and makes everybody say what their business is before she lets them pass to see Secretary Daniels has a lot of interesting stories to tell. Here's one:

The other morning there was an unusual rush of visitors. Smart naval officers, interesting looking men of affairs, prosperous women sent as committees from this and that organization, a governor or two, and at least half a dozen mayors, were waiting their turn, when a little, stubby-toed boy, not a day over five, came eagerly pushing his way through the crowd.

He tried to brush by the woman at the foot of the stairs. When she stopped him his eyes grew very large.

"Say," he said, "you ain't the Secretary, are you?"

"No," said the woman, "but he told me to ask you what you were here for."

"Oh," said the little boy, his big eyes suddenly growing very bright. Indeed, "Did he know I was coming?"

"Why, yes," said the woman. "He must have found it out. Now tell me, what do you want to see him for?"

The little boy drew himself up very straight and dignified, and pursed his red lips into a perfect knot.

Then he shook his head. "I can't tell," he said, "not to nobody but Mr. Daniels."

"Why not?" said the woman at the foot of the stairs.

A Real Conference

The little boy leaned over and whispered in a loud stage whisper that could be heard half across the room.

"It's a secret," he said, huskily. "There was something so earnest in his face and so honest in his eyes that the whole waiting assemblage joined in a plea, and two admirals, a governor and a very well-known financier began to crowd the woman at the foot of the stairs to break her rule just once and to let the little fellow go up."

She did. And the little boy marched sturdily past Mr. Daniels' secretary, and past the electrified office boy, and even past the stenographer, straight into the inner office of the Secretary of the Navy.

"U-boat," he said. "I've got a plan for getting rid of them."

And he had, all drawn out on the paper, and it wasn't such a bad plan, either, so Secretary Daniels says. There was a little matter of motive power or something like that, but the principal idea was all right, and for two minutes the Secretary of the Navy and the heads of his department gathered around that little boy and spread his plans out on the table, and considered gravely with him as to the cost of construction, probable time of building, etc.

The little boy went home a foot taller and several appreciable inches bigger around the chest.

MAN'S FRAME BUILT ON AN OLD PLAN

By Garrett P. Serviss

I ADVISE every visitor to Washington to spend a thoughtful hour in the hall of the skeletons in the Natural History Museum. In an analysis of the educational resources and influences centered at the nation's capital this remarkable collection cannot be neglected.

Don't let yourself be deterred from such a visit by any superstitious fear of skeletons or by the notion that I am proposing to you a tiresome course of study in osteology and comparative anatomy. Those scurried white ranks are a part of the embattled army of science, arrayed in behalf of the democracy of knowledge, and, while one of them lies in a dark corner might startle you, their ordered multitude robs them of terror and awakens intelligent curiosity.

The prejudice which many persons feel with regard to skeletons is absurd and helps to keep them ignorant of facts that ought to be as familiar to everybody as the meaning of common words. You might as reasonably have a "creepy feeling" about the beams of a house or the ribs of a ship as about a skeleton.

A visit to this collection, which contains specimens representing all kinds of vertebrate animals, from the tiny humming bird to the gigantic whale, including the one that stands straight and carried the best developed head, will furnish the most convincing argument that you have ever met with to prove that man was not the sudden product of a separate creation, but simply one among many progressive developments from a common plan.

Old Plan Used

The skeleton is the frame of the house of life, and the points that the great assemblage here to be seen emphasize are (1) that all these animals of such immense variety dwell in the same kind of bone house constructed on the same general plan; (2) that without any essential type the architectural details of the vertebrate house have been, in the course of millions of years, varied to suit the requirements of various inhabitants; and (3) that the osseous habitation of the creature called man differs no more widely from the general vertebrate plan than do many of the others.

Absolutely nothing essentially new was invented for the human frame. It was evolved and developed out of the common scheme. Adjustments were made for fresh needs. Some of the beams of the framework were proportionally shortened or lengthened, or attached and assembled in a slightly different way. Some members were dropped out, new braces and tendons were put in, but the great fundamental axis, the backbone, and its offshoots—limbs, ribs, neck, skull—remained virtually unaltered in place and function.

"Cupola" Enlarged

Many details were not changed at all; consider for instance this curious fact in man and in nearly all other mammals, no matter how much the length of the neck may vary, the number of cervical vertebrae in the spine is always the same, viz., seven.

You will certainly say to yourself, as you look over the collection: "If an inhabitant of another planet should come to the earth after its life had all perished, and should find only these skeletons that terrestrial life had reached, but he would never dream of supposing that that particular form had been the result of a special creation."

The cupola of the vertebrate house, insignificant in size and position in position in many of the earlier forms, was enlarged for man into a commanding dome, towering all, and in it became the seat of the intellect, the sole discoverable, tangible source of our immense superiority to our cartilaginous and highly developed human brain. Yet that, too, was evolved out of a previously existing component of the original vertebrate plan, for the brain antedates man by countless ages, and was even possessed in embryo by animals not vertebrates, such as the earthworm. This ant is an ancient man, and possessed a tiny brain as an instrument of intelligence some before he existed.
